The Wisconsin Master Naturalist Program is a growing network of well-informed citizens dedicated to natural resources education and service within their communities. Volunteers perform at least 40 hours of volunteer service each year and receive 8 additional hours of training annually to maintain certification. Partner organizations throughout the state deliver the volunteer trainings, which provide coursework in natural history, interpretation and conservation stewardship in both classroom and field settings.

“I am inspired and want to continue learning more about nature and to volunteer in a variety of ways.”

– 2018 Master Naturalist Volunteer

“Overall, I loved the program and the experience and feel well-equipped to further increase my knowledge and my volunteer opportunities from this point forward because of the resources the program gave me.”
