

Care for the Land as an Arboretum Volunteer

Volunteer stewards and restoration team leaders play important parts in caring for the land, fostering engagement, and working with others. The Arboretum is offering training opportunities to join these essential corps of volunteers. More info: arboretum.wisc.edu/get-involved/volunteer/

Stewards

Stewards patrol trails four hours a month. They keep Arboretum lands safe and clean, track phenological sightings, and interact with visitors.

- Independently patrol the trails in all seasons
- Positively influence visitor experience
- Record trail conditions and visitor interactions after each shift
- Help protect the Arboretum

Training Information

Training dates: March 31, April 6, April 13 (20 hours total)

Apply by: March 20

Contact: Stephanie Petersen
(608) 262-2746
smpetersen2@wisc.edu

Restoration Team Leaders

Restoration Team Leaders supervise other volunteers at restoration work parties, making significant contributions to Arboretum land management.

- Lead and supervise volunteers at Saturday morning work parties
- Restore native ecosystems and improve habitat
- Keep accurate records and communicate with staff
- Develop professional leadership and land management skill

Training Information

Training dates: March 31, and select Saturdays & Thursday evenings through July (50 hours total)

Cost: $100

Apply by: March 20

Contact: Marian Farrior
(608) 265-5214
marian.farrior@wisc.edu

Arboretum
UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON